(APP-076) Top tips to untangle that tongue	Oli Isaac	Top tips to untangle that tongue' is a multimedia performance that plays with the speech therapy exercises Oli had growing up. Resisting how speech therapy can frame the stutterer as being the problem, Oli stages an ode to their stutter to challenge the shame and guilt placed on people with speech impediments. Oli wants to break down ideas of fluency (fluent for whose benefit?) and normalcy (normal for who?) that hung over them in therapy. A reclamation of language through poetry and movement, top tips to untangle that tongue seeks celebration amidst the battle Oli waged on their tongue.
(APP-122) Women empowering women	Bhupinder Purewal Chantal Anderson Pamela Mertz Christine Simpson	This workshop is about women's empowerment led by a diverse group of women who stammer. The presenters will share their experiences, but we will leave plenty of time for participants to ask questions and share their issues.
(APP-118) Older people who stammer – a discussion group	Kirsten Howells TBC	If you stammer and are aged 55+, we'd love your involvement in your session. We'll be presenting findings from the 2021 STAMMA Survey where we explored the experiences of people who stammer in age ranges from 55-64, 65-74 and 75+, comparing them with the experiences of people who stammer in younger age groups. There were lots of similarities across the whole age range, but also some interesting differences. We'll explain the findings of the survey and will then discuss, as a group, ideas for how STAMMA can better support older people who stammer.
(APP-086) Inspirational learnings from a cross-cultural group of cluttering speakers	Ciel Waagens Udbjorg Joseph Dewey Rutger Wilhelm	Not long ago the lives of Rutger, Ciel, and Joseph were turned upside-down. For years, they had been muddling through as people who stuttered. After being diagnosed with cluttering, however, many things started to fall into place. Through striking anecdotes they will share their interesting stories as well as tips from a international group of cluttering speakers around the globe. Let's dive in the need-to-knows and strategies to better cope with cluttering; on a mental and emotional level and in interaction with others. At the end you will leave the room more knowledgeable and enlightened!
(APP-132) STAMMA Arts Network	Temitayo Adesegun	Let's encourage, discover, and support our community's artists. STAMMA's Arts Network will a network of support for established and new artists, and those interested in the arts. Let's meet the network leaders, we want to hear from you!
(APP-105) The power of Body Language	Dave Van Burik Sybren Bouwsma	Our communication consists to a large degree of non-verbal signals, aka Body Language. Body language sends signals to our communication partners and vice versa. It has great impact on how we are perceived and how we perceive others. Body language can also cause emotions within ourselves. It can make us insecure or confident, weak or powerful, insecure or convincing. In this workshop, facilitated by a body language expert who stutters, you will observe, discuss and practice easy-to-apply body language skills. You'll will feel more confident, and in control, to meet your communication goals.
